

ALS Labelling Solutions Announces Certification to ISO 9001:2015

ALS is proud to announce our recent accreditation of the Internationally recognized Standard (ISO) 9001:2015.

ALS Labelling Solutions, a Leading Irish company that specialises in supply and sale of Standard and Customised Automatic Labelling systems and Auto ID Technology, including the supply of all associated consumables, are proud to announce their recent certification (ISO) 9001:2015.

This certifies that ALS consistently provides products and services that meet both their customer's requirements and applicable statutory and regulatory requirements. Additionally, this certifies that ALS aims to enhance customer satisfaction through the effective application of the ISO system. We are delighted that we have met our goal of achieving ISO 9001:2015 certification of our Quality Management Systems. ALS has always prided ourselves on our high level of customer service and as we went through the rigorous certification process, our team further improved our system and processes by scrutinising our organisation at every level, which has resulted in new goals and quality objectives to help our company through planned future growth.

By meeting the extensive criteria for these standards, ALS affirms its ability to consistently deliver effective Quality Management Systems and drive continuous improvements to products, services, and internal processes. This serves to better our relationship with both customers and employees and strengthens our company as a whole.
